The Signs of a Rodent Infestation

While every rodent infestation occurs in a slightly different way, there are some telltale signs of an infestation that are always the same. As soon as you recognize one or more of these signs, it is time to get help; Infestations can spread and increase in severity very quickly as the rodents multiply and their presence attracts more pests. The longer you wait to call in a professional, the more difficult it will be to get rid of the infestation. Signs of an infestation include:

- Rodent droppings are one of the most definitive ways to identify an infestation. These droppings are small, circular and often found near sources of food or water.
- Rodent nests are another surefire sign of a problem. Nests are made of soft, shredded material such as paper and fabric.
- Bite marks on food packaging, especially near droppings or nests.
- Holes in floorboards, especially near other signs of infestation. Rodents use these holes to enter and exit your business.

Commercial Rodent Pest Control

There are some things that you can do to minimize the risk of your business suffering a serious rodent infestation. You can try to avoid leaving food and water out, which is probably the most effective action that you can take on your own. You can also try and find holes that allow rodents to enter and exit your property, but these rodents are surprisingly clever in the way they gain entrance to a structure.

Our trained and experienced pest control professionals know where and how to look for rodent holes. We also know how to treat an infestation. We will permanently seal up all the holes that rodents are using to get into your business. The pros at Legacy Pest Control will also set baits and traps if the infestation is bad enough. It can require numerous methods to get rid of a rodent infestation for good, and it's best to leave it to the professionals who deal with similar situations day in and day out. The reasonable price of treating a commercial rodent infestation is nothing compared to the benefit your business will see from the return of your customers.
